Industry Update

Golf Simulators Market to Reach USD 1,441 million by 2032, Growing at a CAGR of 6.9% says Credence Research

The Golf Simulators market is projected to grow from USD 845 million in 2024 to USD 1,441 million by 2032, registering a CAGR of 6.9% during the forecast period. This growth reflects a rising demand for advanced sports technologies that offer both professional training and recreational entertainment.

As more players, coaches, and enthusiasts seek convenient ways to practice golf indoors, the market has become an essential part of the broader sports simulation industry. Golf simulators are no longer niche products; they have gained relevance across commercial facilities, corporate setups, and residential spaces. The ability to provide realistic swing analysis, advanced ball tracking, and immersive course simulations has transformed them into an attractive investment for golf enthusiasts and businesses alike.

Indoor Facility Profile

The Caddy Shack Indoor Golf & Pub

Date started, We started in September of 2016 as The Sweetspot Indoor Golf with two TruGolf portable sims and in 2018 we changed to The Caddy Shack Indoor Golf & Pub and moved to our present location.

Type of facility: Restaurant Bar, Training Facility, Practice facility

We have a full-service bar, restaurant, and indoor golf facility with three HD Golf Simulators in private suites of varying occupancy. We also offer private Laser Shot shooting sim suite, private karaoke suite, and banquet/meeting room. We offer multiple options for golf, shooting, karaoke, or meeting/banquet room rentals with options for onsite catering and /food and beverage service. We also offer a different event(s) in our bar, separate from the sim suites, every night of the week.

Services Offered: Food & Beverage, Lessons, Bay Rentals

We offer a VIP service experience in our private suites from our full-service bar and kitchen. We have multiple private suites on two floors, and our set up allows for flexible rental of different suites and the banquet/meeting room for any sized corporate, private, or wedding events. We are also a full-service bar with a small kitchen serving baked chicken wings, flatbread pizzas, chicken strips and fries as well as other appetizers and locally branded bar pizzas and other appetizers when the kitchen is not open.

How did you get started?

We ran a whitewater rafting company in the summer and bought the TruGolf equipment from a local business when they folded. Originally, we were looking for a complementary seasonal business for our rafting company. We found the golf sim rental alone was not profitable enough in our small town to allow for survival, so we found a building to move to and expanded into a full service bar with the indoor golf facility as a primary function.

What are your future plans?

Our plans are to continue to grow our loyal golf customer base among leagues as well as expand our corporate, private, and wedding event rentals and catering.

Garmin Approach R50 vs Full Swing Kit Launch Monitor: Read Our Head-To-Head Verdict

Think the best golf launch monitors are only for golfers with deep pockets? Think again. While premium models like Trackman and Foresight Sports can cost a small fortune, relatively speaking there are more affordable options that still deliver impressive functionality.

The Full Swing Kit and Garmin Approach G50 are two excellent examples. Both use radar technology, pack in plenty of useful features, and come in at a far more accessible price point than the top-end devices. We've put these two impressive launch monitors head-to-head to see which offers the best blend of performance, value, and features for your game.

Even House Marries Indoor Golf to Social Club Culture

Lifestyle interest clubs, where folks click over a shared obsession—whether it's ripping forehand winners, bagging ducks, or throttling Harleys down a winding road—have long provided a social anchor outside of home and work. For those wired to take dead aim at pin flags, golf clubs have long filled that role. But country clubs aren't for everyone, and public tracks skim on the amenities that make off-course socializing stick.

Even House, the brainchild of Orange County husband-and-wife duo Adam and Laily Fogel, has fashioned a gap wedge of a tribe-finding concept they feel casts a wider net. Originally east coasters, Adam got his start as an investment banker at JP Morgan in New York before getting the entrepreneurial itch and launching a specialty cycling supply shop/e-commerce play that hit $10 million in sales before he exited. Laily spent a decade running a digital marketing agency for fashion, beauty and hospitality clients.
